Audience first. Stories with purpose.

Divia Unpad TV

Marketing communication internship / Jun–Jul 2026

Useful stories. Measurable response.

Divia Unpad TV is a campus media organization. In its three-person marketing team, I used audience insights to plan platform-specific content, activate LinkedIn and support partnership communication. The account results below reflect our shared work. My takeaway: a clear audience and a repeatable process help useful stories travel across platforms.

My contribution: Content planning, LinkedIn copy, audience analysis, company profile and media-partnership workflow.

TIRIZ

Academic client campaign · Pancarona team / Oct-Nov 2025

From a story to a shared moment.

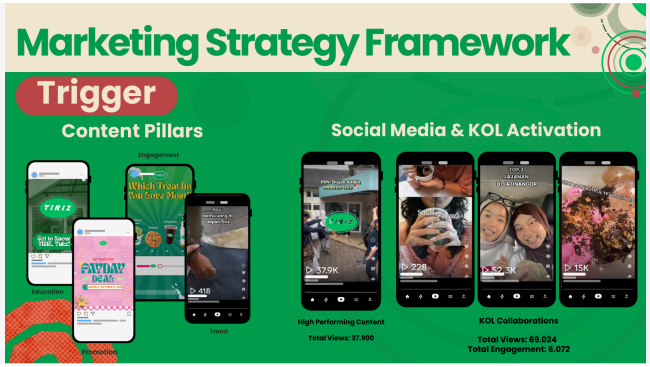

Our five-person Pancarona team ran a two-month campaign for TIRIZ, an ice-cream brand. I contributed to content strategy and execution, creator collaboration and the Choose Your Mood offline activation. Content delivery exceeded targets, while average Instagram feed reach fell short. My takeaway: evaluate delivery volume and audience response separately.

Choose Your Mood activation / November 2025

Content. Creators. Connection.

The takeaway

Content output and audience response need separate evaluation. Average feed reach was 185.9 accounts per post below target.

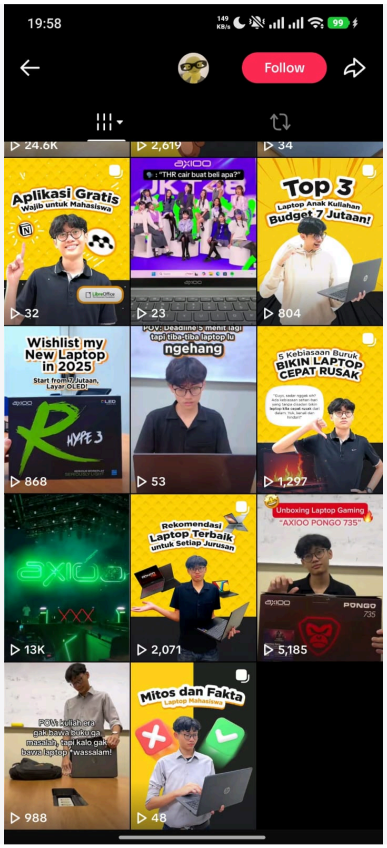

Stories and videos reached 300% and 200% of target. Creator pieces averaged 17,256 views (69,024 ÷ 4): 1,725.6% of target, or 1,625.6% above target.

Cakradata

Marketing internship / Jan-Feb 2025

Making technology relevant to student life.

Student-focused technology work sample

At Cakradata, a technology company, I researched audiences, monitored media and turned student needs into content plans, soft-selling copy and technology explainers. I also contributed on camera. My takeaway: start with a familiar audience need, then explain the product benefit.

My contribution

Audience research, student-focused content planning, soft-selling copy and multimedia support. Technology explainers and on-camera delivery.

Explain the benefit in the audience's language before introducing the product.

Ideation / Epicentrum

Event Management Staff
Feb-Jun 2025

Ideation, part of Epicentrum, is an international competition organized by Communication Management at Fikom Unpad. Participants address social issues through strategic communication and social campaign design. As Event Management Staff, I developed concepts for four event segments and delivered the event with a seven-person team. Turned the segment concepts into activities for the international communication competition.
